

Parents,

Your musician needs your help! (What else is new?) In order for Mr. Nichols to challenge each musician, he needs us, the Boosters, to help him. All of us.

As the volunteer coordinator, I have two goals this year. They are to engage as many parents as possible to help this year in some small way and to bring everyone back next year. I know your time is precious and I have two ideas to get maximum involvement without me being harassing and pleading.

- 1) You tell me what days and times work best for you. If something comes up and I know it does not fit in your schedule, I will not call you.
- 2) Get the list of what help we need out there early so you can fit into your calendar.

There are too many ways to help to list them all here. So I need you to tell me what days and times work best for you! If a particular type of job better describes your availability, then tell me that. Keep me updated as your schedule changes as often as you like.

I am asking for this level of detail because I don't want to burn anyone out. Most of our musicians are going to need our help for another few years and we will need them too. I want to see everyone next year.

I have broken the volunteer opportunities into two sections: long-term and short-term. The long-term opportunities are things that take just a few minutes each week but are vital to the smooth operation of Band Booster administration and events all year long.

The second section is short-term opportunities. These opportunities involve anywhere from an hour or two a week to 5 or 6 hours per week but are wrapped up within a few months. They are typically in support of large events that take place over several hours.

The Volunteer Webpage has more details on opportunities. The website also has a list of events throughout the year so check it out and sign up early for your favorite.
